Tip to help the Planet:

Make smart shrimp choices this summer - and all year!

The bycatch problem: Shrimp fisheries produce some of the highest levels of by-catch in fishing. For every pound of shrimp caught, they discard almost twice that weight in other species. It can be 10 times the weight in some areas. And bycatch doesn't just include fish - also turtles, seabirds and other animals. With some fishing methods few of these unwanted fish and animals survive.

Shrimp trawled in tropical waters are worst in this regard, while U.S. shrimp trawlers must adhere to stricter environmental standards.

Tip to help the Planet will return in the fall - your tips are welcome.
